Note: In 2008, the San Francisco branch purchased an AED (automated external defibrillator) and provided CPR training for branch members in an effort to prepare for medical emergencies at dance events. At the branch's Asilomar weekend in 2009, a dancer collapsed as the result of cardiac arrest at the conclusion of Bauldy Bain's Fiddle Friday night. Fortunately, there were several medical professionals on hand, many trained volunteers in CPR, and an AED. The result of their immediate efforts is that the dancer in question survived and is back dancing today! The staff at a local hospital called it a "medical miracle."

Julee Montes, the Asilomar weekend registrar, requested a dance and tune to commemorate the occasion and Janet and I were pleased to oblige. This dance is dedicated to the heroes who provided immediate medical attention, and to the many who cleared the floor, remained calm, and led the local paramedics to the site—a response that exemplifies the teamwork of our dance community.
